Hello from Rochelle Lentschke the New Foundation Director

Rochelle Lentschke began as the new full-time ENMU-Ruidoso Foundation Director March 20. She most recently worked for the New Mexico Workforce Connection developing apprenticeships and various workforce development projects across Eastern region of the state. Previously, she served as president and scholarship coordinator of an alumni scholarship program for over 20 years serving approximately 150 members who funded scholarships to students of Texas A&M University. "I believe this new position will complement my talents and gifts as well as present opportunity for expansion. I am a product of both community college and major university and was solely responsible for the expense of that journey. I have been an employer and business developer in the horse industry which provided many opportunities to market potential to people from a variety of economic situations," said Lentschke. "It is my personal goal to develop mutually beneficial relationships and am willing to collaborate for success. I look forward to the adventure alongside all of you to advance the mission and vision of the Foundation."
