Welcome New Student Employee & Writing Center Tutor

Caitlin Daugherty of Nogal began working at ENMU-Ruidoso Jan. 21 for the Writing Center as a part-time writing tutor. She has an Associate degree in University Studies from ENMU-Ruidoso and is currently enrolled at ENMU Portales and will graduate this spring with a Bachelor's degree in Communications with an emphasis in Journalism and a minor in English. She previously worked as a marketing intern for ENMU-Ruidoso External Affairs Office and as a digital archivist for Susan Jiminez, the widow of the late artist Louis Jiminez. Additionally, she was a transcriber for Barbara Diehl, an ex-opera singer, for her memoir. Caitlin was also the editor for the ENMU-Ruidoso Ridgeline Review, the El Portal Literary magazine as well as editor and reviewer for the ENCHANT ME Anthology project at ENMU Portales. Her family has lived in New Mexico for the past two decades. Caitlin is grateful she has had the support of ENMU-Ruidoso through her entire college career. Her hobbies include making papier mâché masks, drawing, collecting weird bottles and cans, and caring for her two guinea pigs.

Work-Study Student
Shanay Scott-Arbuckle

Shanay Scott-Arbuckle of Bent began working as a part-time work-study student for the External Affairs Office Jan. 16. She is currently finishing an Associate degree in General Studies at ENMU-Ruidoso. She formerly worked for James Flores as a manager at Scorpion Tattoos and Ruidoso Escape Rooms for 10 years. Her favorite quote is by Alan Watts, a British-American writer, speaker, and self-styled philosopher, "you are who you've always been searching for." Her family comes from all corners of the world, but settled in Bent. Her father was a Choctaw-Ojibway native, who served in Vietnam and her mother was a former model/ballet dancer from Australia. She has an older sister and a handful of half siblings, whom she is very close with. She has a young son, who delights in causing mischief and making friends. Her hobbies are hiking, paddle boarding, tattooing and creating intricate wall collages. She has a love for audiobooks and listening to TED talks.
