Issue 5 of Ridgeline Review Released

ENMU-Ruidoso's literary and fine arts magazine, Ridgeline Review Issue 5 recently released. This year's issue features more than 40 local and regional artists and creative writers. Contributors include ENMU-Ruidoso students and staff, along with community members, including both experienced and first-time writers and artists. The issue was produced and edited by three Student Editors, Jonathan Wheeless, Reese Pretlow, and Gloria Jeremias, and Faculty Advisor and Language and Fine Arts Department Chair Jeff Frawley. Staff Member Jocelyn Rose also contributed to the design of the issue. Free copies are available at ENMU-Ruidoso. The cover features a photo by ENMU-Ruidoso Professor Emeritus Jack McCaw.

Student editor Gloria Jeremias says, "Our goal with this issue was to designate the arts as the drive of a people through trials and tribulations by showcasing the works of local artists and writers that help keep this spirit going. Art and writing are in both the youth and the elderly, and they tie us together as the strong community that we are!"
