ENMU-Ruidoso Attends Rare Paleoamerican Odyssey Conference

Four representatives from ENMU-Ruidoso traveled to Santa Fe, Oct. 14-17, to attend Paleoamerican Odyssey, a special international conference held approximately once every ten years! The conference brings together leading archaeologists, anthropologists, and researchers from around the world to share groundbreaking discoveries about the earliest inhabitants of the Americas. Attendees had the opportunity to explore cutting-edge research, connect with experts in the field, and bring exciting new knowledge and perspectives back to our campus. Pictured left to right: Jocelyn Rose, staff, Dr. Robynne Horn, History faculty and Humanities & Social Sciences Department chair, Shelly Elfelt, Biology faculty and Science & Math Department chair, and Ian Lower, Biology student.
